Readings - 23rd June - 12th Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Pope and the Right Words

The identity of Jesus has fascinated people century after century, even now after two millennia. That identity has so much depth that it is easy to be misled by emphasizing one element to the neglect of mystery.

In today's Gospel, we hear Peter proclaim: 'You are the Christ of God.' In Greek, Christos simply means 'Anointed' (Messiah means the same in Hebrew.) So Peter is saying: 'You are the Anointed One of God', the Messiah yearned for by the Jewish people.

This inspired insight is good so far as it goes. But did you notice the strange twist in the story? Jesus instructs Peter and the other disciples not to say anything, to keep quiet, not to spread this description of him. Why? Jesus knew that this title could so easily be misunderstood. One of the temptations which Jesus had faced was when he was taken by the Devil to the top of a high mountain and shown all the kingdoms of the world. 'These can be yours if you but worship me.'

Jesus was being offered a short cut to the success of his mission. He could use his popularity to marshal political support and achieve his program with sovereign power overcoming opposition ideologies. But Jesus rejected that greatest temptation. He had read enough of the prophet Isaiah to know that humiliation and suffering and the desolation of a wrenching death was the way marked out for him.

Jesus knew that Peter, the rest of the disciples, and certainly the crowd, had nowhere near reached the point He had in understanding the implications of being 'the Anointed One of God'.

And Jesus knew Peter very well. His birth name was Simon. Jesus changed that to Cephas in Hebrew or Petros in Greek, 'Peter' for us. It was a nickname full of irony. It means 'rock' and conveys the idea of rock solid, dependable. But for this effervescent, changeable fisherman 'Sandy' might have been more accurate than 'Rocky'.

If anyone could claim to understand the true identity of Jesus, but then completely misunderstand it, it was Peter. So, he was told to keep quiet.

Nevertheless, grace was given to Peter: to find the right words to express the faith of the disciples, the followers of Jesus, and thereby to tell the truth, even if not yet the whole truth in all its dimensions and implications.

This is still the role of the successor of St Peter, the Bishop of Rome, the Pope. By the grace of God, the Pope finds the right words to express the faith of the followers of Jesus, not his own idiosyncratic beliefs, and quite independently of his own character.

We need to pray that the Pope continues to find the right words to express the faith of the church in ways appropriate for our times. For example, he needs to find the words to express the fact that:

Jesus is more than a prophet. Even Islam believes that Jesus of Nazareth was a prophet, but Peter's successor needs to lead Muslims to a deeper understanding of the identity of Jesus.

O Lord we pray

that young men will answer the call

To become priests in Your harvest

Jesus is more than a fully enlightened, compassionate being. Even Buddhism can believe that Jesus of Nazareth was such a being, but Peter's successor needs to lead Buddhists to a deeper understanding of the identity of Jesus.

Jesus is more than a wise teacher who portrayed a noble way of life and was done to death by a squad of Roman soldiers. Many in the western world believe that much, but Peter's successor needs to lead them to a deeper understanding of the identity of Jesus.

The Pope needs to find the words to proclaim to the world that Jesus of Nazareth:

- is the body language of God;
- is the way God is under conditions of space and time
- is the conqueror of death, the vanquisher of the grave
- is the One anointed to bring us salvation, a share in that conquest and victory
- is the One who will transfigure our bodies in the light of his resurrection
- is the One who will fill us with eternal joy.
