A VOCATION VIEW: Vocations from God are not always clear. Not all of us are like Joseph who had an angel appear to him saying: "Take Mary as your wife, and fear not." However, God still speaks – "Do not be afraid."

Psychology helps identify some guidelines for making better choices about whom to trust than relying simply on intuition. These include: don't act impulsively - take time to think; beware being pressurised; be careful of people who move too fast in relationships; ask yourself what you know about the person; be holistic - use both your emotions and your brain, your intuition and your experience of the world. In other words: take time to ensure that your trust is well placed.

At first glance, King Ahaz seems to be a good man who has complete trust in God; he refuses to ask for a sign: "I will not put the Lord to the test." In fact the reverse is true. Ahaz proves himself to be an evil king. Faced with invasion and imminent defeat, Ahaz turns away from the true God to worship pagan gods, even instigating child sacrifice to appease them. Ahaz doesn't want to put his trust in the Lord God and he definitely doesn't want a sign, because if the sign comes true, Ahaz will have no choice but to admit his mistake and turn back to the Lord. However, God promises a sign anyway: a maiden who is with child. And the child himself will be a sign of the very thing that Ahaz rejects: that the Lord is with his people.

Joseph also has to make a decision about whom to trust. Will he trust Mary, his betrothed? Will he believe the fantastical claim that though still a virgin she is pregnant and that this is God's doing? Joseph also has to decide whether to trust his dream in which God's angel gives him a message that harks back to that ancient promise of God of Ahaz, that the child will be the fulfilment of God's promise to be with the people. The Gospel doesn't tell us explicitly how Joseph makes the decision to trust Mary and to trust his dream. But clearly it has to involve a process of combining his intuition and his experience both of Mary and of God. Ultimately, of course, Joseph has to trust himself and his ability to listen both to his heart and his head.

Like Joseph, we can listen to the still, quiet voice of the God who speaks to our better self in the silence of our dreams and our hopes - the God who quietly yet persistently invites us to live our lives in hope and confidence, rather than insecurity and fear. To genuinely trust God - to believe that God is with us - has the most profound consequence for our lives and for our community.

Congratulations to Kristal Meekings who this weekend is received into full communion with the Catholic Church, is confirmed and shares Holy Communion for the first time. This will occur at the 5.30 Sunday Mass. Kristal was baptised in the Anglican church and there formed in her Christian faith. Her long association with Catholic Education has opened her life to the Holy Spirit who has now called her to continue her faith journey in the Catholic Church. To everyone who has been associated with her journey from baptism until today we give thanks to God. I pray every blessing to you Kristal and to all who are dear to you over these wonderful days.

God bless,
Fr Kevin

Clayfield Conversations

Fourth Sunday of Advent (Year A)

Scriptural context

Today's first reading is from the prophet Isaiah and contains the prophecy that is quoted in the gospel passage. The book of Isaiah was written at a time when the people of Israel were under threat and had once again fallen away from their covenant with God. Isaiah's prophecy is one of the 'Messiah' prophecies but despite the future-focus is a promise to the people of the time that God-is-with-us. The promise is that God-is-with-us now, despite the conditions we find ourselves in, and God-will-be-with-us in the future when God's Messiah is born of a young woman.

Living the Gospel – Advent

Emmanuel; God-is-with-us – that's what we celebrate through Christmas and that's what we've been preparing for during Advent. We celebrate God-with-us in a particular time and place through our celebration of the birth of Jesus. But we remember it every year because we also use the Christmas celebration to remind ourselves that God continues to be with us. That is what is so remarkable about the Christmas season: that God-is-with-us now, not just in a stable in Palestine so many years ago, but now! Advent is the time to remind ourselves of this incredible truth and prepare ourselves to acknowledge it once again.....Liturgy Help
